

Stop People Dying Too Young Do you want to be involved in the work?

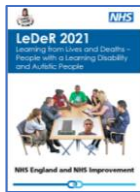

We are looking for 4 autistic people living in the North East to join our Stop People Dying Too Young Group to work on the LeDeR programme.

LeDeR stands for Learning from life and death reviews.

To begin with this work was about stopping people with a learning disability dying too young.

Recently, autistic people have been included in the LeDeR programme.

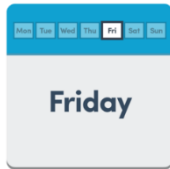

The Stop People Dying Too Young Group is a small group of self advocates and family carers who want to make a difference to the lives of other people.

We would like 4 more autistic people to join the group.

We want to make sure that autistic people are part of the work as well as people with a learning disability.

When does the group meet?

Our group meets once a month on Zoom for 2 hours.

Usually on a Friday 10am to 12pm.

When it is safe, we will do some meetings face to face.

What is it like being on the group?

At our meetings we talk about death and dying.

We talk about difficult things like people dying because they did not get good health care.

This can be upsetting.

Not everyone will want to do this work.

Because the group has worked together for a long time, we all trust each other and support each other if we get upset.

What kind of people are you looking for to join the group?

We are looking for 4 autistic people who live in the North East.

We are looking for people who have these skills

- Can listen well to other people

- Can speak up in a meeting

- Can use a computer or phone to join online meetings on Zoom

- Is comfortable talking about death and dying

- Can speak up for other people

More information

We pay £10 per hour involvement fee to everyone on the group.

If you are worried this might affect your benefits you don't have to take the money.

We will do our best to be flexible and to find a way to make this work for each person on the group.

If you are interested in joining the group, please fill in the 2-page form telling us a bit about yourself and send it back to us.

If more than four people are interested, we might ask for more information to help us choose the right people for the group.
