Protests and riot's in towns and cities across the country.

In the last week, some people have been protesting or taking part in riots across the country.

A protest is when a group of people get together in a public place to show that they do not agree with something happening and are demanding change. They may have banners and shout or sing about their protest.

Protests are usually peaceful, and no laws are broken.

A riot is when a group of people get together in a public place to damage property or harm other people to show that they do not agree with something happening and are demanding change.

Riots are a threat to people and their property, and laws are broken.

Staying safe

The government thinks that there will be more riots in the country. They are working with the police and local authorities to stop the riots.

It can be very worrying for people that protests and riots are happening. Here are some tips for staying safe.

- If you know a protest or riot is happening in your area, stay home.
- Tell your family or someone close to you if you are going out so they know where you are.
- Have a good plan for getting home; if a protest or riot is happening, then buses and trains might change their timetable or stop.
- Always have a mobile phone with you when you are out to call someone if you are worried or afraid.
- If you are out and see a protest or riot, leave the area and go home.
- If you see something or feel in danger contact the police by telephoning 999.
